Debbie,

I just got off of a conference call with Marathon (representing all four of the operators) and URS (the operators' joint consultant) concerning our review of the Prather Spring investigation work plan. To make a long story short, they have agreed to everything listed in the letter I sent out last night. Also, they will be using Evergreen Analytical as the primary laboratory for the subject work. Mark Levorsen of URS is now revising the work plan. Adell Heneghan of Marathon is revising the Form 27 and preparing a letter summarizing what we discussed and agreed to during the call. To avoid any confusion, they will hold on starting the field work until we have received, and acknowledged our agreement with, Adell's letter and the revised work plan. As both of those documents must be approved by each of the four companies, we may not see them until Monday morning.

And also, Adell promised me that Ned will have a new hot water heater shortly.

Chris

P.S. I think I've succeeded at drawing Ned's attention away from you. He just called for the third time today.
