

A large, white, cylindrical chemical storage tank is the central focus of the image. It is situated outdoors at a facility, likely a border crossing, as evidenced by the chain-link fence topped with multiple strands of barbed wire in the background. To the left of the tank, a solar panel is mounted on a metal frame. To the right, there is a smaller, white, rectangular equipment box with a blue handle and a silver latch. Various pipes and hoses are connected to the tank and the equipment. The ground is dry and covered with sparse, brown vegetation. The sky is clear and blue.

unlabeled chemical storage

11.24.2015