General Comment:

COGCC Environmental inspection of well post plugging. COGCC observed the well in the excavation. Well casing was filled with cement to approximately 1" below top of casing. Fluid flow was apparent from a hole in the cement on the west side of the casing. Water was present on top of cement and continued to bubble up from hole in cement. Water flow down sides of casing was evident from staining on casing. No hydrocarbon odor or sheen was observed in the water. An RKI GX-2003 4-gas meter set to detect methane as %vol did not detect hydrocarbons immediately above the casing. No hydrocarbon odors or staining were observed in the soil in the excavation around the well. Operator is to contact COGCC Engineering Group for further direction.
