Sir:

I am at a loss to be able to give you anything definite as to the cleaning up of this lease after the plugging of same.

I, for one would like to get it cleaned up and forget it, as you can well imagine. In the plugging operations, we had to drive around another farm and through another to get to the well for plugging, as you well know by having had to walk in.

Since you were here, I talked to the lad who has the place purchased on Option, about cleaning up the lease and etc.. He is alright, but said he was keeping things locked up as to many were running in and out. That sometime when he had the time to spare, the lease could be cleaned up, and not to worry about it. SO THERE YOU ARE. I can do no more, that I know of.

If you have any suggestions that I might comply with, Please let me know.

Yours truly,

Carl Losey

PS: Might add that the lad who has the option testified for me in the hearing on damages and it came out that VonBurg had tried to hire him to do the dirty work for him.
