Photo 1. Facing northeast towards the topsoil stockpile. The topsoil stockpile has evidence of significant weed growth (e.g. russian thistle and kochia). Additionally, it does not appear that all topsoil has been salvaged as the stockpile volume on location does not appear to be reflective of the amount of topsoil throughout the salvageable area.

Photos 13 & 14. Netting appears to have been shaken out and reinstalled around the secondary containment. The debris that fell off of the netting appears to have mixed with the unknown contents within the secondary containment. All debris/material outside of the secondary containment, and the unknown contents within the secondary containment, must be properly disposed.
